

Excerpt from A Memoir of Mrs. Judith S. Grant: Late Missionary to Persla
Alas, alas, the fading plants, that in the garden lie, In after time they live again, and bloom, once more to die: But we, the great, the strong, the wise, when once beneath the ground, We sleep the long and wakeless sleep, the sleep that knows no bound: Thus thou art slumbering now in earth, with silence wrapt around. Such was the affecting lamentation of one of the sweet poets of ancient days, over the grave of his friend. He was alive to the beauties of nature. About the Publisher
Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy.
